

'Harry Potter's Dobby' spotted on CCTV outside woman's home

The bizarre footage claimed to show a strange figure resembling one of the most popular characters from the Harry Potter film outside a woman's home.

Vivian Gomez, from the US, shared CCTV footage from outside her home which appeared to show Harry Potter's Dobby character, according to mirror.co.uk.

In the footage the creature can be seen walking away from the property, before bending his arms and flapping them in and out like a chicken.

The figure then takes a big step to his right and continues walking with his legs slightly bent, adopting a cocky swagger.

In her post, Vivian wrote, "So I woke up and saw this on my camera and am trying to figure it out."

"First I saw the shadow walking from my front door then I saw this thing. Has anyone else seen this on their cameras?"

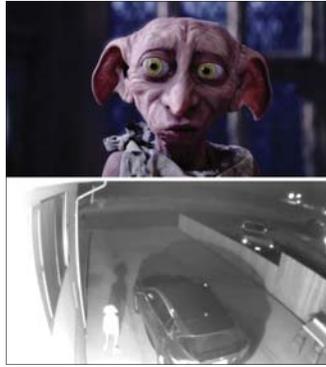

"The other two cameras didn't pick it up for some reason."

The clip has gone viral with tens of thousands of shares but many social media users have branded it a hoax, albeit a well done one.

Twitter profile Now Paranormal Podcast wrote, "The cuts in this video scream edited hoax. There is no CGI. The figure is real."

"The shadows match. However, that wasn't a door shadow, it was another person. And the truck with it's lights on (brake lights) is suspicious."

And others have responded with tongue firmly in cheek.

Savannah Wallace captured video amid strong winds showing the giant inflatable cow coming loose from where it was anchored at the Chick-fil-A store in Montgomery, UPI wrote.

The video showed the cow collide with a car and flip over the vehicle, continuing on to a nearby busy road.

"Flying cows do exist!" Wallace wrote.

A Doctor and an Engineer both loved the same girl.

Doctor everyday gives her a Rose

Engineer gives her an Apple daily.

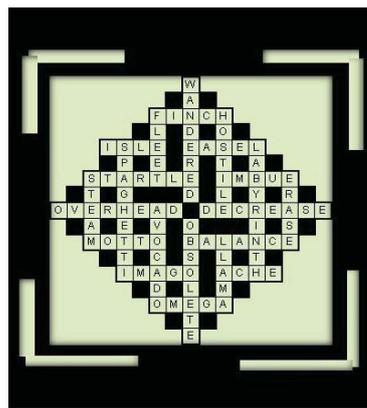

Why You give her an Apple everyday??

An apple a day keeps a doctor away.
